The Medical Center 10K Classic

In a time when more than 35 percent of Americans are estimated to be obese, healthy lifestyles have become a priority for many Bowling Green residents. Research shows that one of the best ways to reduce stress, lose weight, and maintain a healthy lifestyle is by being active.

"We are a hospital not only focused on taking care of you when you are sick, but also on helping you stay healthy," said Doris Thomas, Vice President of Marketing and Development for CHC and Race Director for The Medical Center 10K Classic. "Training and participating in the 10K activities will help you be active, and staying active will improve your quality of life — thus our mission, to care for people and improve the quality of life in the communities we serve. That is why we continue to organize and sponsor this event."

This year marked the 33rd running of The Medical Center 10K Classic. More than 2,000 participants took part in the 10K Classic, the 5K run/walk, the 1.5 mile fun walk, or the Children's Classic. "Running through campus and downtown this time of year is beautiful," said Shawn Dye, PC Tech for CHC. "This is my 10th year participating, and I look forward to it every year. It's a great day to spend with friends and family." This year, the committee was excited to introduce a few new changes, such as the new course route which ended in L.T. Smith Stadium. "The best part of the race was finishing on the 50-yard line at Smith Stadium," said first time runner Holly Akridge, Purchasing Buyer for CHC. "The energy and organization surrounding the event was above par. Absolutely, a race I will do again!"

The Medical Center encourages all employees to become involved, whether you're an experienced runner, a beginning runner, or a walker. At The Medical Center 10K, there is a fitness level event for everyone.

Commonwealth Health Corporation's mission is to care for people and improve the quality of life in the communities we serve.

Physician Recruiting

One of the challenges of being a part of our medical healthcare community is having the right mix of physicians available to serve our patients' needs. Any time you have a shortage of on-call physicians of a particular specialty for your Emergency Department, there will be occasions when immediate care is difficult to obtain and may result in the patient being transferred to another facility for treatment. This is inconvenient for the individual and the family, and results in more time in transit without relief as well as greater expense for transport (ambulance or helicopter service). Once the patient has been treated, such a shortage also means having to return to the other town for follow-up. Even in non-emergency situations, there can be problems with quick access for appointments if our doctor-to-population ratio is unbalanced.

In the next decade, there is a predicted shortage of medical providers in nearly every specialty. While we view Southcentral Kentucky as a great place to live and raise our families, it is not always the easiest area for recruiting new doctors. One of our best resources is to bring hometown medical school students back to our community to practice. We would like to encourage all employees and physicians of The Medical Center to call or e-mail Beverly Neves (796-5569 or baneves@chc.net) or Phyllis Prerost (745-1511 or prprerost@chc.net) with the name and contact information of any medical school student or graduate who is completing residency training. We would like to provide information about practice opportunities in this area. You can also encourage potential candidates to go to our website at www.mcbg.org and review the services our hospitals provide to our 10-county BRADD service area. There is a Physician Opportunities link under the Physicians heading which will allow interested candidates to e-mail their CV, send questions, check the hospital by-laws (Medical Staff Services), or follow links to the various attractions our area enjoys.

The greatest success in attracting and keeping physicians in our community is with those doctors who already have ties here. Please help us find these talented individuals and bring them home.

Watch your email on November 2 for a personal email invitation to participate in the survey.
